Milov, V (2678) – Bu, X (2685) [D12]

2007 Canadian Open Chess Championship Ottawa (10), 2007

1.d4 d5 2.c4 c6 3.Nf3 Nf6 4.e3 [] This was Bu's consecutive Slav, playing with either colour, although here Milov played a solid line which dissuades an early dxc4. 4...Bf5 5.Nc3 e6 6.Nh4 Be4!? [An attempt to provoke f2–f3, after which White's N/h4 will lack a natural retreat square. It is likely to take on 6...g6 in any case, as planned, so it is worth mentioning that 7.f3 also softens up White's K–side, and the dark squares in particular.] 7.f3 Bg6 8.Qb3 Qc7 9.Bd2 Be7 10.cxd5 cxd5 [] Not fearing the open c–file, Black plays to provide a more active post for his N/b8, reserving d7 for the King's knight if needed. 11.Nxg6 hxg6 12.0-0-0 Nc6 13.Kb1 a6 14.Rc1 Nd7 Rxh4 Bxh4 [] 15.h4!? [Now that Black's knight has left the K–side, White offers a pawn. Bu was not likely tempted, but Rxh4?! Bxh4? Be1! wins 15.e4! and 15...Nxd4?! 16.Qa4! x–rays along the rank hitting N/d4 and 16...Bh4 With Black's bishop and King position so loose, I am certain Bu did not consider capturing for very long.()] after a subsequent exd5 15...Rc8 16.g4 Rxh4 17.Rxh4 Bxh4 [] With a White pawn on g4 blocking the rank, and an extra move in development, Bu now decided to test Milov's idea. 18.f4 Bf6 19.f5!? [] Consistent. White is trying to open lines while Black's King is still uncastled. 19...Na5 20.Qc2 gxf5 21.gxf5 Nc4 22.Bxc4 Qxc4 23.fxe6 fxe6 24.b3!? [Move order is important here. 24.Qg6+ Kd8 25.b3 is also possible, but White's choice keeps some flexibility with the White Queen's choice of entry. Black is under a bit of pressure, but the pawn sac still has a speculative look to it.] 24...Qb4!?

25.Qh7 Rc6! 26.Qh5+ Kd8 27.Be1 Nb6 28.Qh2 Na4! [] Sometimes the best defence is liquidation. Black's last forces a series of exchanges while trying to make the most of that extra pawn. 29.Qb8+ Kd7 30.Nxa4 Rxc1+ 31.Kxc1 Qxe1+ 32.Kc2 Qe2+ 33.Kb1 Qd3+ 34.Kb2 Qb5! [] Bravely playing for the win. Many players would succumb to nerves and acquiesce to a draw by perpetual, but Black still wants to be shown why his pawn shouldn't count for something. 35.Qf8 [My initial suggestion of 35.Nc5+!, is met by the mundane which looks pretty crushing 35...Qxc5 winning. Oops, guess I better change that to Nc5+?? I did mention that this game was played at am, after a week long of pm starts. Well, I need some excuse for hanging pieces, right?()] and analyzed 35...Be7! 36.Qxg7 Qe2+ 37.Kb1 Qd3+ 38.Kb2 Qxe3 39.Nc5+ Kc6 40.Nxb7?! [This turns out poorly, but Black is already quite a bit better if this doesn't work. 40.Qxe7 Qxd4+ and Qxc5 certainly looks like no picnic for White.] 40...Qf2+ 41.Kb1? [It appears that 41.Kc3! may be a better try, but Black can always try 41...Qe1+ and Qb4, leading to a Queen endgame with an extra pawn, and perhaps more importantly two central passers. White may find a draw, but it looks to be a very depressing task.] 41...Qf5+! 42.Kb2 Qf6! 43.Na5+ Kb5 [] 0-1

CFC AGM

This meeting was held during the Canadian Open in Ottawa. At the Incoming Governors meeting, there were 18 governors present and 19 proxies held, for a total of 37 votes. A new CFC executive was elected:

President – Hal Bond
Vice-President – Stijn de Kerpel
Secretary – Lyle Craver (on last executive)
Treasurer – Bob Gillanders
FIDE Rep. – Nathan Divinsky (on last executive)
Youth Coordinator – Patrick MacDonald (on last executive)

Other positions filled were:

Rating Auditor – Pierre Denommee (on last executive)
National Appeals Committee – Gordon Taylor
Pierre Denommee
Maurice Smith
Mark Dutton
Lyle Craver
Chess Foundation of Canada – Paul Leblanc – 1 year
Maurice Smith – continuing
Barry Thorvardson
Lynn Stringer – existing
Kalev Pugi Fund – Patrick MacDonald
Hugh Brodie
Lynn Stringer

There were no bids for 2008 tournaments, including the Canadian Open.

The day before was the meeting of the outgoing governors. There were 12 governors present and 14 proxies held, for a total of 26 votes. In the President's Report (Bill Doubleday), he advised that in the first 6 months of the fiscal year, CFC lost approx. $ 39,000 . In the final 6 months, it made approx. $ 13,000. Thus the deficit for 2006-7 was $ 25,000. An improvement, but the CFC is still in difficulty. The CFC cut staff to one employee on the basis of an Auditor projection that CFC would have been insolvent by Jan. 2007, if expenses weren't curtailed. Sales picked up and cash flow improved, so CFC then hired a part-time staff. Membership in the CFC continued to decline last year, and must be a major concern in the new year. The threat to CFC's charitable status is still outstanding, but CFC has submitted further information, and Les Bunning, CFC lawyer, is hopeful it will be resolved in CFC's favour. CFC did have very successful tournaments this year – CYCC and COCC. But the WYCC is not self-sustaining and this must be looked at. $$ will be available for the WYCC this year though, mainly due to tournament sponsorship.

Main motions dealt with were:

1. to make the Chess Foundation of Canada a separate non-profit – passed
2. removal of executive by governor initiative – defeated
3. suspension of governors for inactivity – defeated
4. to sell CFC building – withdrawn – to be reviewed by new executive

Our Readers Write – CFC’s Retail Business/ Building : Keep or Sell??

Last Issue we had an article on the above topic, and statements on each issue by the then CFC Presidential candidates. Barry Thorvardson wanted to keep retail and Hal Bond wanted to sell it. Both wanted to sell the building. In the report on the CFC AGM above, we reported on discussions on these topics there (the motion to sell was withdrawn and the executive will study the issue).

CFC Treasurer, Andrew Philip weighed in before the AGM with his opinion. Here is what he wrote SCTCN&V:

“ Regarding the CFC debate on whether to sell its retail business, based on my experience as a treasurer and CFO in several profit and non-profit organizations, I would be extremely hesitant to jettison a $141,000 business line unless I had a definite plan to generate compensating revenue or reduce operating expenses. What are the options if retail is dropped:

On the compensating revenue side:

Increase membership fees(? would not be a popular choice with members but likely inevitable in my opinion)

Increase rating fees (? less visible to general membership, but expect flak from clubs and tourney organizers)

Attract more CFC members(!? but hard to do).

More tournaments generating more rating fees (!? but not really in CFC's control to a large degree)

Other ideas...

On the reduce operating expenses side:

Drop full-time staffer??

Sell building and lease thereafter, (!? many businesses large and small lease, so definitely one to look at)

Drop magazine publication??

Other expenses...

Conceptually, I see a lot more negatives in the position to drop retail than positives. But like in chess, to truly assess the proper moves to undertake, I would need to see concrete financial data. “

Former SCC Junior Dies in Tragedy – RIP Gajana Srinivasan

Gaja Srinivasan, former SCC junior, was 20 years old, and the 2003 Toronto Closed Reserves Champion. On July 19, the following appeared in news reports:

Stabbing turns murder-suicide

Police arrived at an east Toronto apartment building yesterday morning to investigate a possible stabbing but instead they came upon a horrific murder-suicide.

Emergency crews discovered the body of a 20-year-old man sprawled on his back behind the building on 50 Tuxedo Court, near Markham and Ellesmere roads, around 11 a.m. A mangled air conditioner lay several feet away.

It appears the man first kicked out the air conditioner, then jumped from a 14th-floor window after stabbing the apartment's owner to death. Police have not released either victim's name, but neighbours identified the 20-year-old as Gajnanth Srinivasan.

About an hour after the incident, Srinivasan's mother ran to police from the complex's parking lot. The rest of her family arrived at the apartment building about half an hour later and spoke about their troubled relative.

“I know he had trouble (with depression) when he was a teenager and a love failure,” the man's cousin, Krishna Srithayakumar, 17, said.

Our condolences to Gaja's family.
